1 Task 1: Slide 46

1.0.1 Simple regression model using student effort data

1.0.2 - What mark will you get if you study for 80 hours

1.0.3 - How many hours do you need to study to get an A?

1.1 Looking at the data

In [1]: import numpy as np
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt

import useful libraries
import numpy as np
import matplotlib.pyplot as plt
from mpl_toolkits.mplot3d import Axes3D
import scipy.stats as stats
import csv
this line plots graphs in line
%matplotlib inline
```

```
In [2]: data = np.array([[84,70],
[76, 64],
[90, 83],
[63, 45],
[55, 40],
[60, 38],
[34, 20]] )
```

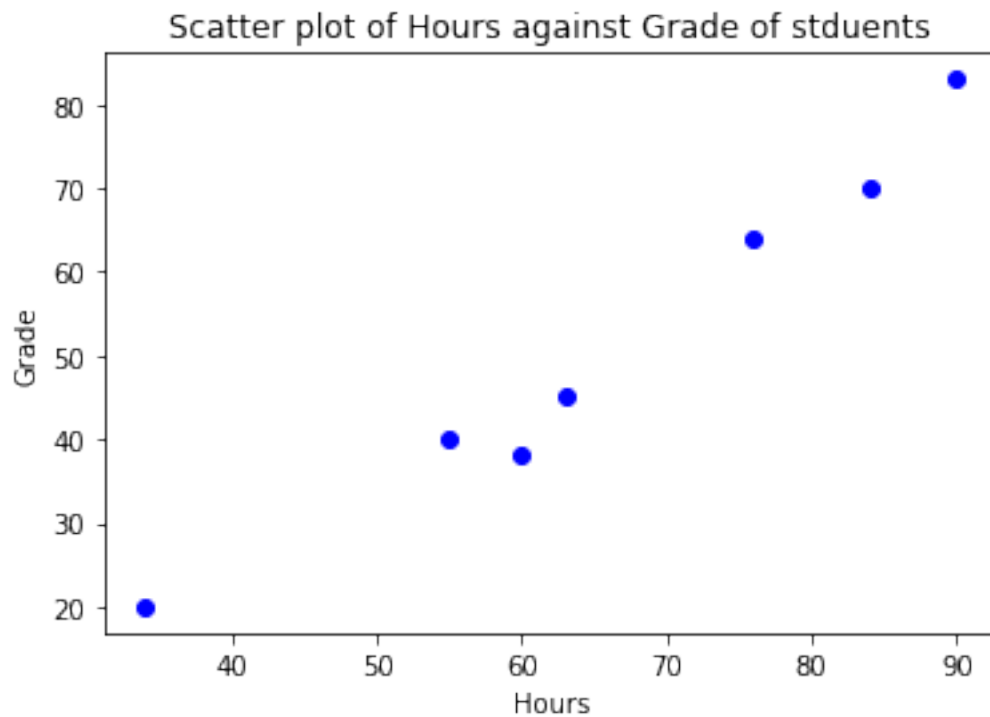

```
In [3]: data

```
Out[3]: array([[84, 70],
[76, 64],
[90, 83],
[63, 45],
[55, 40],
[60, 38],
[34, 20]])
```

```
In [4]: students =plt.scatter(data[:,0],data[:,1], marker='o', color = 'b' )

plt.xlabel('Hours')
plt.ylabel('Grade')
plt.title('Scatter plot of Hours against Grade of stduents')

plt.show()

1.2 Manually trying to fit a line (just to get oriented)

In [5]: # eqn of line :  $y = mx + c$
Changing these manually till I get something I am happy with
c= -22
m =1.15

#I just want to generate a bunch of x values so that I can see the line
x =np.array([0,101])
y = m*x +c

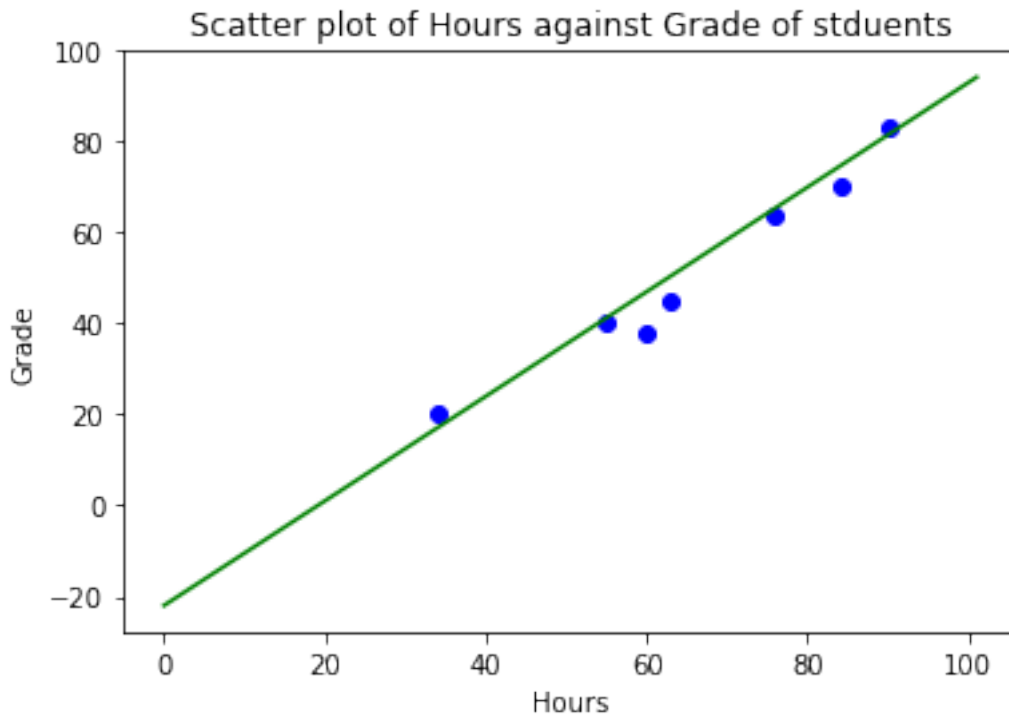

#plotting scatter plot
students =plt.scatter(data[:,0],data[:,1], marker='o', color = 'b' )

plt.xlabel('Hours')
plt.ylabel('Grade')
```

plt.title('Scatter plot of Hours against Grade of stduents')

plt.plot(x,y, 'g')

plt.show()

1.3 Ok, now I want a form of metric to measure distacne from each sample to my line

(even though I don't have my line yet, I think I need this to figure out the error, so I can minimise it) Params: line points (x and y), and the line m and c) Returns: A numeric value, representing my error

In [6]: def squareError(x,y, m,c): predictedValue = m*x +c
        err = predictedValue - y
        return err 2

1.4 Just for the sake of trying, I am going to try fit m and c using random numbers.

I guess I am cheating slightly by norrowing down my range with the values I found manually.

In [7]: iterations = 100000
        maxM = 5
        minM = 0

        maxC = 5
        minC = -40

        Besterror = 100000
        bestWeights = [0,0]
        errors = []

        for i in range(iterations):
            #print(i)
            errors = []

            m = np.random.uniform(low=minM, high=maxM)

            c = np.random.uniform(low=minC, high=maxC)
            currentVals = [m ,c]
            for sample in data:
                errors.append(squareError(sample[0], sample[1],m,c ))
            Currenterror= sum(errors)

            if(Besterror > Currenterror):
                bestWeights = currentVals
                Besterror = Currenterror

        print("----- Final -----") print ("Best error:",Besterror)

        print("Best weghts:",bestWeights)

----- Final -----
Best error: 101.08559511760708
Best weghts: [1.1174779142276718, -22.316132295964195]

1.5 Now I can try it properly with gradient decesent

In []:
